

About The TOEFL iBT (Internet Based Test)

The TOEFL iBT test measures the English language skills important for effective communication in an academic setting. It consists of four sections: Reading, Listening, Speaking and Writing. The entire test is about four hours long and all sections are taken on the same day.

The TOEFL iBT test uses integrated tasks that require test takers to combine just as they would in a real academic setting. The integrated questions ask test takers to:

- Read, listen and then speak in response to a question
- Listen and then speak in response to a question
- Read, listen and then write in response to a question

The following chart shows the possible number of questions and the timing for each section of the test. The time limit for each section varies according to the number of questions. Every test contains either a longer Reading section or a longer Listening section. Additionally, below it is the sequence which TOEFL iBT test is given during the official session.

Test Administration

- The TOEFL iBT test is administered via computer from a secure Internet-based network.
- Instructions for answering questions are given with each section. Test takers can take notes throughout the entire test. At the end of testing, all notes are collected and destroyed to ensure test security.
- For the Speaking section, test takers wear headphones and speak into a microphone. Responses are digitally recorded and sent to the ETS Online Scoring Network where three to six human raters score the responses.

- For the Writing section, test takers type their responses. Responses are sent to the ETS Online Scoring Network, where they are rated by four raters – two human raters for the integrated task, one human rater and one e-rater for the independent task. (With e-rater, your responses are scored by the computer.)
- All human raters are trained and certified by ETS and are continuously monitored throughout the day each time they rate.
- Scores are reported both online and by mail.

About Test Scores

Scores Scales

The TOEFL iBT test provides scores in four skill areas:

Listening 0-30

Speaking 0-30

Writing 0-30

Score Reports

The score reports provide information about your readiness to participate and succeed in academic studies in an English-speaking setting. Score reports include:

- Four skill scores
- Total score

Scores are reported online two weeks after the test. You can view your scores online free of charge. Paper copies are mailed shortly after the scores are posted online. However it is recommended planning beforehand, since mail services sometimes make the delivery of Score Result more than two weeks.

Colleges, universities and agencies also can view your scores online and receive paper score reports when you have selected them as score recipients. You can do this free of charge for up to four score recipients when you register, or you can do it after the test for a fee of (US$ 17). You can order by logging into your online profile, by mail or by fax. Go to www.ets.org/toefl for more information.

Performance Feedback

Score reports also include feedback that indicates whether your performance was high, medium or low and describes what test takers in these score ranges typically know and can do with the English language. In the future, performance feedback will also include suggestions for improvement.

Score Requirements

Each institution sets its own requirements for TOEFL iBT scores. These minimums depend on factors such as the applicant's field of study, the level of study (undergraduate or graduate), whether the applicant will be a teaching assistant and whether the institution offers English as a Second Language support for its students.

Each has collected the score requirements of many TOEFL Destination institutions. For your convenience, these are included in the TOEFL Destinations Directory at www.toeflgoanywhere.org. However, we advise you to check with your particular program or department at your target destination to find out if they have any special score requirements.
